CYNTHIA BROSHI was drawn to Jin Shin Jyutsu for the help it gave her daughter, born with a life-threatening illness. Skeptical yet desperate, her first attempt at "jumper cabling" was full of fear...for about three minutes...when, tensions melting, she found herself captivated by the mysteries and simplicity of this Art. Her studies with Mary Burmeister (1985-1990) were supplemented with frequent hands-on experience with Mary over a ten-year period. Jin Shin Jyutsu has now been her daily practice for 33 years.

From the experience of complementing medical regimens with Jin Shin Jyutsu, Cynthia brings to classes a practicality and a blend of intuition, science and heart. Since 2002 she's presented 5-Day Seminars and Special Topic Classes worldwide. visual artist and poet, her colorful drawings and precise language help to convey the Art's basic principles and clarify its intricacies.
